KICHLY EURNISHED CLEAN ROOMS:

Over the Baltimore Conference, he has been a popular presiding officer, and has made many friends among preachers and laymen. It can be said of him in all sincerity that he "puts on no airs," and that his manner is that which reminds those before him of the "old time" Methodist preacher. He leads the singing during the conference sessions, "raising" the tunes without organ accompaniment, and the hymns he selects are always those which have held a prominent place in which have held a prominent place in the history of Methodism and are familiar and dear to the heart of Methodist preachers. Bishop Kilgo mingles much among the preachers and seems to care nothing for the formalities of office, but rather to enjoy in a brotherly manner the association of the members of the conference, in the spirit of a man among men.

Among the many visitors who are spending the week-end at the confer-ence, is Roy. F. L. Day, of Ashland. Mr. Day was for a number of wears a member of this conference, but he is now a member of the faculty of Ran-dolph-Macon College, and there also he is doing a successful work.
